The Radio HF Internet Newsletter is distributed monthly, free of charge, to subscribers by e-mail. The Newsletter is a collection of web sites specifically related to radio (AM/FM, shortwave, Internet radio, amateur radio, scanning and CB), communications, telecommunications, radio memorabilia and collectibles, media, journalism, science, technology, space and astronomy, weather, transportation, plus some fun things thrown in for good measure! Each edition includes links to web sites submitted by subscribers or by the editor. All sites are reviewed, verified and presented to you, with the URL, and a brief description of each site.

The Newsletter arrives in your in-box as an easy to read e-mail as well as an attached PDF version, with no fear of viruses. The subscriber list is secure, private and confidential. It will never be sold, redistributed or displayed.

Subscribers are encouraged to submit web sites for inclusion in future editions of the Newsletter. All contributors whose sites are published will receive a 2% discount on their next purchase from Radio H.F. The e-mail address for all contributions, comments, and subscription requests is hfnewsletter@yahoo.com <mailto:hfnewsletter@yahoo.com>

Archived editions from May 2005 to the most recent may be found at:

Welcome to the November issue the Radio HF Newsletter. Shorter days, longer nights and dropping temperatures; that's what it's all about now that we're into November. The majority of the leaves have fallen from the trees and we begin to prepare ourselves for what is about to come.

With Christmas just over a month away, don't forget that Radio HF has a great selection of goodies for the amateur radio operator, shortwave listener, DXer, scanner enthusiast, etc. including all the latest books and publications. If you're not sure what that radio nerd in the family is looking for you can always choose a Radio HF gift certificate of any value to be used at any point in the future. Contact Radio HF for details.

I really had to do some digging this month to come up with a reasonable amount of websites to make the Newsletter interesting for everyone, particularly as this month's edition features nothing but contributions from me! Right, not one other contributor this time around. Come on folks, I could really use some help from the 1000+ of you who receive this newsletter each month. So as we head to December, how about gracing me with an early Christmas present with an e-mail package, gift-wrapped if you like, of a few website links that you think might interest your fellow readers.

Our Monthly Special Zone for November includes web pages on World Science Day, Remembrance/Veterans Day, International Day for Tolerance, World Television Day, International Day for the Elimination of Violence against Women, U.S. Thanksgiving Day and Black Friday.

This month's virtual voyage around the world, in the "Where in the World Zone", takes us to The Czech Republic, a landlocked country in Central Europe bordered by Germany to the west, Austria to the south, Slovakia to the southeast and Poland to the northeast. The capital and largest city, Prague, has over 1.2 million residents. The Czech Republic includes the historical territories of Bohemia, Moravia, and Czech Silesia.

So on we go. Here is this month's collection of websites. I invite you to submit some of your favourite websites to include in upcoming editions of the Newsletter.

Science will be essential to reach many of the goals of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and, thus, to ensure a sustainable future. The UNESCO Science Report is one of the tools that countries can use to monitor progress towards the goals of Agenda 2030. Every five years, it analyses emerging trends in science, technology and innovation policy and governance. The latest edition will be launched on World Science Day for Peace and Development, 10 November 2015. The key message of the Report can be summarized in just four words: more research - better development.

THE RADIO ZONE

NEW YORK RADIO ARCHIVE

<http://www.nyradioarchive.com/> <http://www.nyradioarchive.com/>

VIA Sheldon Harvey, Greenfield Park, Quebec

While there are many radio sites and forums on the web, short shrift is generally given to 1960s-1970s free-form, progressive and underground New York City FM rock radio. In addition, when air checks and other collectables are loaded to Forums on the web, they are frequently lost as the postings are removed or it's hard to follow which postings had the associated attachment. This site will serve to remedy those situations. So we'll cover the free-form radio FM scene, mainly for New York radio stations, but we'll also add some goodies for New York AM rock radio fans that don't exist on other sites. The New York Radio Archive (NYRadioArchive.com) features airchecks, articles, advertisements and other documentation about New York radio culled from the air, from journals and newspapers of the day.

THE SHORTWAVE RADIO ARCHIVE

This being the Holiday Gift Giving Season, I always like to point out that the ARRL Handbook is "The Gift that Keeps on Giving"! Continuously published, updated and enhanced since 1926, there is no other comprehensive guide to every aspect of the amateur radio art. Regardless of if you are a complete newcomer to the hobby or a highly skilled experimenter/constructor, The Handbook belongs on your shelf. Period, Full Stop, Dit Dit!

Over the years, more frugal hams have been able to skip a few years between editions of The Handbook. This is not so easy of late. Developments and advancements in the radio art have brought tons of new information and ideas to each new issue of The Handbook.

For example, the newest edition includes:

- Beacon transmitters for VHF/UHF
- A comprehensive new RF connector identification chart
- Breaking entirely new ground, a CD-ROM article on lightwave transmitting and receiving
- An up-to-the-minute treatment of fractional-n frequency synthesizers
- A high-altitude APRS tracker and SDR Knob Box
- ARRL Lab Test Procedures Manual

The CD ROM included, as always, includes a fully searchable version of The Handbook. You can search by text or graphic. There is also expanded supplemental content that includes relevant software and complete PC board Templates for all construction projects.

Available in either hardcover or softcover editions, The 2016 Handbook comes most highly recommended!

Available in the US from the American Radio Relay League and in Canada from Radio HF

What is new in books & publications from the American Radio Relay League, the Radio Society of Great Britain, and other publishers?

The Radio Amateur's Workshop

By Joel R. Hallas, W1ZR

Amateur Radio operators have a long tradition of going beyond operating, moving into technology development, home construction, and experimentation. Designing and building one's own station equipment can be rewarding, providing more in-depth knowledge and excitement. There are a number of ways to make good use of a properly equipped workshop for projects. We will explore many of the options radio experimenters choose to pursue.

The Radio Amateur's Workshop is your guide to setting up and maintaining an efficient at-home laboratory and work station. It describes the tools you'll need for projects ranging from assembling electronic kits to building and testing antennas. Subsequent chapters look at a wide variety of workshop test equipment, including an explanation of how various instruments can be used to develop, fabricate, and evaluate projects. Become part of the do-it-yourself movement—discover fun and creative ways to use radio technology at your workshop today.
